part of the house was averted, all of these eventually being taken to the street in safety.

When the reserve police arrived they found the narrow stairway practically blocked with bodies, which were, in some instances, crushed almost beyond recognition. Scores of children were forced by the pressure from the crowd behind them to scramble over those that had fallen, whether living or dead, and many of the injured children were found later to be suffering from fractured bones and severe lacerations, caused by the indescribable manner in which they had been trampled upon.

Soon after the accident the approaches to the hall were crowded with sobbing women scarcing for their sobbing women scarcing for their missing children.

SEARCHING FOR BODIES

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.-The body of Thomas F. Phillips, one of the three firemen whose lives were snuffed out in the burning of the thirteen-story Parker building on Fourth avenue, last night, was recovered late today. Senreh for the other missing men is being carried on. The blackened walls of the skyscraper threaten to collapse, and the police have ordered the tenants of the smaller buildings in the vicinity to leave. A dozen buildings have been vected.

Fire broke out again tonight on the fifth and sixth stories of the ruined building, but the flames were quickly extinguished by the fire corps, which are still pouring streams of water on the smoldering skeleton.

NEW YORK SURGEONS

IN FRENZIED RUSH

The scene was a terrible one, the cries of the injured and means of the dying causing the greatest excitement among those gathered in the body of the hall. Police and ushers rushed to the head of the staircases, which were literally strewn with dead and dying, and by the most desperate efforts managed to drag scores of the struggling children to the corridors below. It was with the greatest difficulty that a panic among the children in the lower part of the house was averted, all of these eventually being taken to the

FIGHT IN HOUSE ON PENAL LAWS REVISION

Republicans Muster Full Strength, but Democrats Are

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A vigorous waged in the House of Representation of the United to see fight was waged in the House of Representatives today over the bill to codify and revise the penal laws of the United States, with particular reference to sec-tion 19, affecting conspiracies against the civil rights of citizens

Messrs, Smith of Missouri and Hughes of New Jersey offered amendments hav-ing for their object the exemption of ing for their object the exemption of labor unions from the operation of the section whenever such unions declaro strikes or boycotts. A motion to strike out the whole section was made by Mr. Bartlett of Georgia. The brunt of the debute was borne by Mr. Sherley of Kentucky, a member of the Committee on Revision, but he was supported by a number of Republicans. The amend-ments were all lost, as was one by Mr. De Armond to strike out section 20 be-cause it conferred on Federal courts in punishing felonies and misdemeanors committed under section 19 the authorty given to the courts of the State in which the acts are committed.

One Amendment Passes.

The only amendment to successfully pass the gauntlet was one by Mr. Clark of Missouri striking out that portion of section 19 which provides for offenders the additional punishment of ineligibil-ity to hold any office of honor, trust or profit under the Government.

In anticipation of the debate and the necessity for votes, the Republican lead-ers mustered their full strength and thereby were enabled to vote down all amendments which they deemed unrea-

The exceeding earnestness of the debate led to the charge that there had been a prearrangement, but this was denied. The Democratic leaders declared that they had no intention of conducting a fillbuster.

The fact that many of the votes taken during the somewhat stormy debate were almost strictly party votes was declared by Democratic leaders to be incidental, and not significant of any preconcerted plan. It is likely that discussion of the bill on points of law will be indulged in from time to time for several weeks.

DENIES DROPPING OF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 .- It was stated officially at the Department of Justice today that there would be no cessation in the prosecution of land fraud cases in Colorado and other Western States, although the decisions of Horace Judge Lewis have made it necessary to this morning, the mystery which has change the procedure in some respects. It is pointed out by the officials of the Kan., since February 27, 1906, will be described in the control of the contr department that, pending an appeal from Judge Lewis's decisions, which will be expedited in the supreme court as rapidly as possible, there would be no advantage in bringing further criminal proceedings on similar charges, except such as might be necessary to avoid the operation of the statute of limitations. In cases in which there is danger of prospective defendants securing immunity by reason of the expiration of time, it is intended to have indictments brought within the time limits, but not time, it is intended to have indictments brought within the time limits, but not to ask for further trials until the pending questions are settled.

In view of this course, which is enforced by the prosent statutes of the matter, it is regarded as wholly nunccessary to retain the same organization in Colorado that would have been necessary to prepare and bring to trial new cases of this character, and arrangements have, therefore, been made that a number of secret service operatives who have been engaged in the work of preparing these cases in Colorado shall be released from this duty and that the field force in that State shall be considerably reduced. It is declared that these reductions do not in any way affect the legal force of the department at work on these cases, and that no resignations from this force have yet been received by the Department of Justice and no reductions are in contemplation at the present time.

Worry Over Loss of Money and Declares It Impossible to Raise Domestic Unhappiness Said to Have Been Cause.

OAKLAND, Jan. 11.-Pietro Saroochi, an ironworker, and his wife, Reina, fought a ducl to the death this morning in their little four-room cottage in the Montgomery tract. He was armed with a large butcher knife and she with a razor. After battling for fifteen or twenty minutes the husband finally slew the wife and cut his own throat from ear to ear, expiring on her dead body.

Worry over money, which, it is said, was deposited in the California bank, and the fact that his wife has left him several times recently, are believed to have been among the causes that led up to the fatal quarrel. Saroochi and his wife returned last night from Los An-geles, where he had gone to get her after her last flight from him. Their 3year-old daughter was at the home of a neighbor.
It is believed from the condition of the bodies that after having adminis-tered the death blow to his wife, Sarouchi took the razor from her hand and slashed his own throat. He was 37 years of age and she 28.

LARAMIE, Wyo., Jan. 11.—"The Un-ion Pacific has purchased for the year 178 track miles of ninety-pound rails for additional second track," said A. L. Mohier, vice-president and general manager of the Union Pacific, at the opening session of the Wyoming Woolgrowers' association here, in the course of an address on the promised improvement of facilities for his road. But Mr. Mohler deprecated for his road. But Mr. Mohier deprecated the wave of probibition as a possible means of reducing traffic, the recent referred to the result of railroad development in the next year. He admitted that millions should be employed in the work of extending failroads, but asked where the money was to be obtained under such conditions.

"With the prohibition wave gradually spreading and with the probable tariff reduction, it would seem ultimately that the Government will desire to tax interstate business, which represents on the Union Facific 55 per cent of its business."

Mr. Mohler said: "The amount of money expended on second tracts alone and taxes in the States of Wyoming and Nebraska far exceeds the gross earnings derived in these two States and allows nothing whatever for the maintenance of the old lines nor interest nor dividends.

"It is quite within bounds to say that during the next five years this country should spend many millions in the enlargement of its railroad facilities. How this money can be obtained with the restriction applying to transportation lines is difficult to answer.

"Reformers and agitators and the people may as well face the situation and meet squarely with full recognition of the present condition of affairs, which prevents needed capital from investing. There can be no thoroughly marked revival of new railroad construction on a scale commensurate with the necessities of this Western country until accurities receive greater protection than at present, notwithstanding if is casy to may that railroads must be forced to expandibut they must be capitalized at exact cost and that the promoters' and bankers' profits must be eliminated, there still remains the practical part of the whole question, who will obtain the money and how can it be obtained?

"The constant attacks on overcapitalization seem, in the case of the Union Pacific railway system, peculiar, in viow of the fact that the United States Government was its partner in the original incorporation in 1879, when it was capitalized for $112,000 per wile, while the present capitalization of the Union Pacific railroad is less than $50,00 per mile. In other words, the inflattion has been backward.
